JASMINE HOANG

PROFILE

While working as a FOREX trader and sales representative in Hanoi, I immersed myself in a fast-paced environment using computers and interesting applications. I specifically wanted to learn about the software and began reading and exploring more about the programming side of this industry. After spending a couple of months researching, I decided to investigate JavaScript. I have now been studying front-end programming, specifically JavaScript, since March of 2020. I have truly discovered one of my passions in life. I am now a self-taught front-end developer who can realize projects from the ground up. I can design, code, and deploy in an organized and efficient manner. I have over 16 months of experience with HTML5, CSS, JavaScript. I also have a basic knowledge of SASS and Bootstrap. I am confident in creating fully responsive websites.
